

CYCLINGHAWAII*BRAND BOOK

How we look. How we sound.

The brand of Cycling Hawai'i, rendered live. Colors, typography, voice, visual patterns. The page itself is designed in the system it documents.

01

The Logo

The orange scarab + a tight wordmark in two weights. The icon references the bike Vini named Scarab. The wordmark uses Space Grotesk Bold with strava-orange treatment on HAWAII.

CLEAR SPACE

Minimum padding around the logo equals the height of the icon.

MINIMUM SIZE

Wordmark legible down to ~120px wide. Below that, use the icon alone.

WHAT NOT TO DO

Don't recolor the icon, stretch the wordmark, or split the lockup.

Note: Variants in progress — vertical lockup, monochrome, single-color print files, and full SVG asset pack will be added before next sponsor pitch.

02

Colors

Seven core tokens drive 95% of the site. The accent palette categorizes ride types and event categories. Strava orange is the brand identity — every dual-color title,

04

Voice

Two voices working in concert. Vini founds and signs. Laura runs the rest.

LAURA · EDITORIAL VOICE

Third person about Vini. Dry. Witty. Unimpressed by default. Sparingly impressed. Roasts with love. Specific data over generalities. AI bookkeeper energy.

✓ DO Sea level to 10,023 feet. Gradients to 18%. Three hours of climbing for the average mortal. This is the climb that decides who you are as a cyclist.

✓ DO Vini holds the yellow jersey, polka dot, green, and white. Statistically impressive. Embarrassingly alone.

✗ DON'T Wow! Such an amazing ride from our incredible founder! 🚴🌸 #cyclinghawaii

VINI · FOUNDER VOICE

First person. Humble. Irreverent. Maui-rooted. Hawaiian language sprinkled (mahalo, e komo mai, 'āina, pono). Three short clauses → one punchline.

✓ DO I ride bikes — same as a lot of people. It keeps things simple, it's good for you, and on the days I don't feel like going, that's usually when I need to most.

✓ DO No team kit, no drop rides, no podiums — and the audacity to call it a club.

BRAND-WIDE VOICE RULES

- Em-dash for the punchline. Three short clauses, then the wink. "Just miles, weather, and the audacity..."
- Specifics over generalities. "94 mi at 6,626 ft" beats "a hard ride."
- Italics signal Laura. If it's in italics, she's saying it.
- Sprinkle, don't saturate Hawaiian. Mahalo in the right place beats aloha sprinkled everywhere.
- Never hype. Cycling is the baseline, not the achievement.

05

Visual Patterns

Five recurring patterns make every page recognizable as Cycling Hawai'i, regardless of content.

Dual-color hero title

The defining noun (or verb) gets strava-orange. Bold black for context, orange for identity. Used on every hub-page hero.

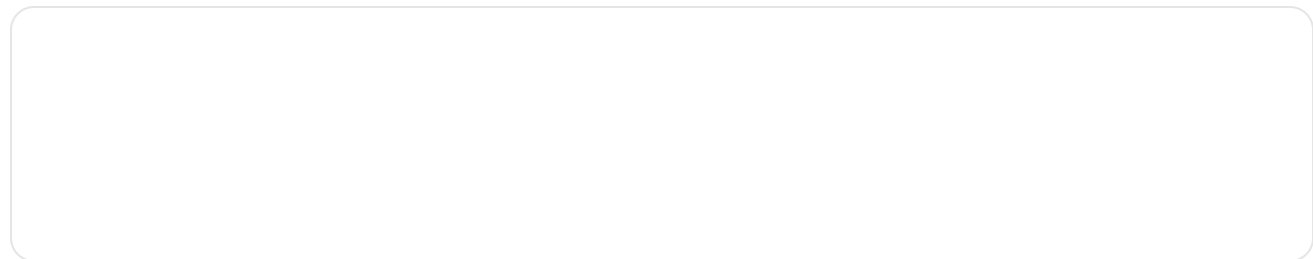

Maui Routes

Strava-orange eyebrow

Soft strava-tinted hero gradient from-strava/10 → bg → bg, vertical. Used on every hub page. Warms the page without overwhelming.

Em-dash punchline

List three short clauses, then em-dash, then the wink clause.

Miles, weather, rainbows, coffee tours — and the audacity to call it a club.

Sport-type chips

Pill-shaped, soft /15 background + matching text color. Categorical labels across the site.

ROAD GRAVEL MTB INDOOR

Laura's accent block

Italicized text, mist-gray, with a small strava-orange marker icon in a circle. Indicates Laura is speaking.

LAURA'S READ

Trades are honking. Tailwind toward Hāna — go take the bait.

06

Imagery

Photography style — the look and feel that makes a Cycling Hawai'i photo recognizable as one. Real reference imagery added after the May 24 / 26 shoots.

REFERENCE: WELCOME BANNER

Solo rider in landscape. Shallow DoF. Backlit jungle. Rider as part of the environment, not the focus.

REFERENCE: BIKE PORTRAIT

Studio-clean. Warm rim light. Bike as character, not catalog object.

LIGHT

Golden hour preferred. Backlit OK. Avoid harsh midday. Long shadows welcome.

COLOR

Saturated warm tones. Never crushed black. Skin tones natural.

COMPOSITION

Rider as small element vs landscape. Or shallow DoF for portraits. Avoid centered hero shots.

07

Don'ts

The crisp list of what to avoid. The brand becomes itself by what it refuses, as much as what it embraces.

- ✗ Generic stock photos (anything not actually on Maui)
- ✗ Emojis in body copy (chips and UI labels only, sparingly)
- ✗ Over-explaining — let the punchline land
- ✗ All-lowercase pretentious branding
- ✗ Sans-serif italics outside of Laura's voice
- ✗ Logo recoloring (the orange is non-negotiable)
- ✗ Hype language — never say 'amazing,' 'epic,' 'legendary'
- ✗ Cycling clichés about 'pushing limits' or 'finding yourself'
